About Bullman

The Issuer owns 100% of the Siguri gold project and Balandougouba gold project in Guinea, West Africa. Both projects consist of six mining licenses with each license covering between one and two square kilometers. Environmental permits have also been secured which licenses and permits allow the Issuer to engage in mining extraction in the two project areas.

In addition, the Issuer renewed six exploration permits with respect to surrounding lands. The six exploration permits was obtained in May of 2013 covering roughly 600 square kilometers and were due to expire in May of this year. After returning 50% of the gross permitted lands to the government of Guinea as required by the Guinea mining law, the exploration permits were extended for an additional 2 years. The Issuer is carrying out exploration programs on both of its projects and planning to commence trial surface mining with the financing proceeds received.
