About Ivanhoe Electric Inc.

Ivanhoe Electric is a United States domiciled minerals exploration company with a focus on developing mines from mineral deposits principally located in the United States. Ivanhoe Electric seeks to support American supply chain independence by finding and delivering the critical metals necessary for electrification of the economy, with a focus on copper. Ivanhoe Electric uses its accurate and powerful Typhoon™ geophysical surveying system, together with advanced data analytics provided by its 94.3% owned subsidiary, Computational Geosciences Inc. ("CGI"), to accelerate and de-risk the mineral exploration process as we seek to discover new deposits of critical metals that may otherwise be undetectable by traditional exploration technologies. Through the advancement of its portfolio of electric metals exploration projects, headlined by the Santa Cruz Project in Arizona as well as other exploration projects in the United States, Ivanhoe Electric intends to support the United States' supply chain independence by finding and delivering critical metals necessary for the electrification of the economy. Ivanhoe Electric also operates a 50/50 joint venture with Saudi Arabian Mining Company Ma'aden ("Ma'aden") to explore for minerals on ~48,500 km² of underexplored Arabian Shield in Saudi Arabia.
